THE PROBLEM

Following a Management Buy Out, a waste management company was falling into disarray, margins failing, senior management resigning and previous management were poised to reinvest and return.

THE SOLUTION

On behalf of a major UK bank we undertook a fast, thorough IMR, taking into consideration the company's precarious situation and recommending an emergency action plan. Five members of the senior team were profiled, a focus group represented by staff from all departments was created and a 25 point strategy put immediately into effect.

THE RESULTS

Our IMR supported the MD but proposed that the Bank sought a 3 year commitment from him, appointed a part-time Chairman, a new Financial Director and undertook a 100 day plan.

The entire assignment from first contact to final report took just 3 weeks and enabled the Bank to implement emergency measures fast.
